Subject: Microsoft Settlement

I support the settlement worked out between Microsoft, the Federal Government and the states aligned with the government in the anti-trust suit. The settlement is good for consumers and the economy and should be approved as written.

Moreover, the judge in the case, should pressure the remaining states to accept the settlement terms since the terms maintain competition in the marketplace, encourage innovation, and provide consumers with software choices at some of the most competitive (cheap) prices in the history of our nation. Moreover, the handful of states that are still pressing the anti-trust case are needlessly wasting taxpayer dollars and are engaged in a politically motivated vendetta that has no benefit for consumers - their actions only benefit a handful of disgruntled Microsoft competitors who have not been able to effectively compete in the marketplace because of their poor strategies and inferior, overpriced products.

Thank you for listening to a happy consumer!

Sincerely,

Tony Bray
